Republican doings throughout the country are about the same as they are in Pennsylvania. Republican Legislatures are generally of about the same caliber as Pennsylvania's Legislature—given to extravagance and profligacy—but having little concern for anything other than the Republican party. Promises made by Republican newspapers turn out nearly like those made last fall concerning the Alms-house. Legislator's doings appear to be, like those promises, mostly for private or party gain.

The people of the county are living rapidly of the present Board of Directors of the Poor. The people of the State are disgusted with the Legislature, yet they have been so long used to Legislatures of the kind and their unscrupulous partisan methods that they have almost ceased to expect a better order of things. The sole aim of the present Legislature seems to be the creation and enlargement of offices for the purpose of rewarding party dependents.

The Philadelphia Report says:

"The Legislatures of New York, Indiana, Missouri and some other States have given the country a foretaste of the blessings promised by a restoration of Republican rule. Two mass meetings have been held in New York city to protest against the threatened partisan legislation dictated by Boss Platt. Governor Morton has within a few days been constrained to send a message to his fellow-Republicans in the Legislature rebuking them for their neglect to pass necessary laws. But the Legislature, heedless of protests and remonstrances, turned to take its orders from the Boss who has constituted himself the sole representative of the Republican party in New York."

The Republican Legislature of Indiana closed its session in the midst of a scene of anarchy and violence. In Missouri the Governor is considering the propriety of convening the Republican Legislature in extra session in order that it may pass necessary laws neglected in the regular term. In Nebraska the Legislature has just passed a bill to place the municipal government of Omaha under control of the American Protective Association and of a band of Republican hoodlums.

Our thanks are due the many subscribers and patrons who kindly remember us while making their April payment.

Up in Huntington township a mule sold, the other day, for ten cents. If that had happened last fall our contemporaries would have devoted a column or two in asserting that it was due to the Democratic administration. What foolishness!

HARMONY IN THE PARTY. Word coming from Washington says that President Cleveland is not pleased to be misrepresented, as he has been, in some statements that have been made with respect to the proposed reorganization of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania. The President wants to see harmony prevailing among the Pennsylvanians Democrats in order that they may have more prosperity as a party than they have recently enjoyed, but no one has any warrant for saying that the Presidents would approve a movement for the destruction of the present management of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, and particularly that he would sympathize with any attempt to humiliate Mr. Harris. It is peace and not war that the Presidents wants in the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, and he does not think harmony can be promoted by helping one element of the party against the other.

"Arun wool" reminds one of the Alms-house pests of last fall. Neither amounts to much in the end.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29, 1865. Editors of Compiler: President Cleveland and the other members of the administration are entirely satisfied with the present state of the various diplomatic complications. The new minister of Spain has sent a communication explaining the delay in replying to Secretary Gresham's demand in the Alliance case, and it is probable that the demand apology will speedily follow; there has been a decided let down in the attitude of the British government as to its dealing with Nicaragua and Venezuela since President Cleveland instructed ambassadeur to inform the British foreign office that it violated the Monroe doctrine in its dealing with those countries. The United States would forcibly interfere, and all of the other complications are being pushed to a standstill.

According to the latest advice from Germany, President Cleveland's determination not to appoint delegates to the expected monetary conference, because of the difference between the avoided purpose for which it was proposed to hold the conference and those of a conference which the Woolcott amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill authorized the United States to take against the Confederacy. It seems that the government of Germany was engaged in a little game of income for the purpose of placing the British in the wrong. All ways in their local papers, however, they are to be kept on the front and continue to be published on the front and continue to be published on the front page, except by the New York Times.

Fifth, in what direction do they invariably turn when they want redress from burdens of any kind—taxation, railroads, etc.? And those who have been making these statements who have been making them are to be pitied, for it has no real intention of getting the powers to attend a monetary conference?

Attorney General O'ney's speech against the granting of habeas corpus by the 13th amendment in the case of Debs, the leader of the Com. in the case of Debs, has been very highly complimented. In the following quotation from the "Daily Record" it is stated in a nutshell: "By logical process he has made steam railroads interstate commerce carriers for both governmental and private purposes." In July, 1864, the railroads of transportation were being interfered with in Illinois and the city of Chicago. The interference was on an immense scale, with the destruction of trains, with assault upon passengers and employees by which many were killed and many more wounded, with howling and crying and the occupation of entire districts and terrorizing the population. It was an interference for which, with all its consequences and incidents, the grand jury of the Commonwealth, and the grand jury of the Commonwealth, will be held responsible, unless it be true that some wantonly touch the match to powder and yet be blameless because not rightly employed.

The other side are to be branded as criminals, while the law and order summum are to go unwhipped of justice because of loud mouthed profanity and contempt and respect for law and order in particular. Dan.

CHANGE OF PLANS.—The Castown Creamery Association has decided to change the working of their plant and will temporarily keep their works until separating machinery can be placed instead of the former method. This plan will be most advantageous to the stockholders as well as those who sell their cream, because of a higher price obtained for butter by the improved system of skimming.

CORN CULTURE.

PREPARING THE LAND.

THE MANIFOLD ADVANTAGES OF GIVING THE PLANTS A GOOD START—MANUFACTURING FOR CORN—PARAGRAPHS ON PRACTICAL SUBJECTS.

Early in the spring the land is plowed for corn, and in certain regions, the first before the desire to allow the frost to penetrate the soil and also to destroy the cutworms. This is very necessary if seed is to be used for corn, as the damage done by cutworms in often such as to prevent the making of a crop, as well as entailing much additional labor for replanting. There is a saving of time by early plowing because the teams will be busy later on. Soil land should be plowed in the fall and left unharrowed and then cross plowed in the spring. In some sections the farmers work over the land with a disc harrow in the spring if the sod was turned under in the fall, but it is better to plow in the spring and then use the disc harrow to cut up and pulverize the soil. All heavy yields of corn have been secured on land that was made fine and put in the best possible condition for the seed. The first preparation for corn is one-half the advantage, as it gives the young plants an early and vigorous growth, and increases their capacity for securing plant food as well as enabling them to better withstand drought.

MANURE ON CORN LAND.

It is customary to use all kinds of manure on corn land, no matter how coarse it may be, for the reason that the corn plant is a gross feeder, and completely covers the surface of the ground with its roots and rootlets, but if a large yield is desired it will be found that the better the condition of the manure, and the nearer its approach to solubility, the more vigorous the corn plants at the start. If the manure is unmotted, and must decompose in the soil, it will be only when the plants are nearly ready to mature that the manure will begin to become available, and a large proportion will remain over until the second year, which is no loss but prevents its use for the crop of the first year at a time when the plant food is most required by the crop.

CULTIVATION.

Cultivation of corn should be done with the object of giving it an early start so as to get the plants ahead of the weeds and to afford the greatest root capacity before the dry weather of summer comes. It may happen that the manure is inferior, and affords but little benefit, especially at first. If the plants do not have a bright green color apply 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre, and the effect will quickly be noticeable after the next rain, but if soil land is used for corn the nitrogen will in all probability not be lacking, but a bag of finely ground bone meal may be used. Keep the cultivator in the field until the weeds and grass have been completely subdued, for if this is not done the labor applied to growing a corn crop will be partly lost as the yield may be reduced below the cost of production.—Phila. Record.

Stirring the Soil.

An orchardist in one of the western counties of this State tried an experiment which strongly proved the value of cultivating the ground in orchards. He set out an apple orchard and gave it good care. The fifth year it bore eight barrels of fruit; twenty barrels the sixth year; and for eight years afterwards the annual product was eighty-five barrels on an average. Cultivation had been continued up to this date, and he thought it was now time to set it to grass and clover. The next year the product fell to eighteen barrels, or to less than one quarter. Cultivation was then resumed, and the second year it bore 225 barrels. The owner concluded to keep up clear culture in the future.—Country Gentleman.

Give Thy Horse His Head.

A few weeks ago two horses were drawing each a load of coal up a rising grade in the suburbs of our city. The hinder horse had the check rein swung loosely on his neck, and the animal was hanging on his neck, and by throwing his weight into the load was dragging his load steadily up without undue strain on his muscles and joints. The foremost horse was braced up with a tight check rein, his head cramped and raised, his mouth fished and every joint and muscle starting and strained at each step took.

The two men were talking to each other, and the carter of the blinder horse was heard to say: "Bill, go and give thy horse his head; he'll pull that load easier." Bill went and let down the check rein. The horse immediately did his work in a way which conveyed the relief he felt as clearly as if he had said: "There, thank you; I'm all right now." We would advise every one who has the charge of a draft horse when he is at work to follow the advice, "Give thy horse his head; he'll pull that load easier."—Our Dumb Animals.

Turnips as Food for Poultry.

As a winter food for poultry, the turnip gives good results. Fed in the cooked state, if the hen will keep in better condition and lay a greater number of eggs than when grain alone is fed. The poultryman will soon find that, when he feeds a mixed diet of turnips, chopped clover and other bulky feed, with only enough grain to balance the ration, as is done for the cow, he will get better results, and at a lower cost.

GRIMSON CLOVER,

The Best Crop for Hay and Green Manuring.—Fall, Winter and Spring Pasturage.

The advent of Grimson Clover marks the beginning of a revolutionary era in farming. The discovery of a new economic plant has been more opportune than at any time in the history of our farmers over thirty years ago, when during a quarter of a century the fatal mistake was made in introducing the turnip from England's seed. Not until a native strain was found, did the turnip become a valuable food for the cow.

The great mission of Grimson Clover is to furnish an abundance of most nutritious forage at seasons when our pastures are dead. It is the source of an unusual supply of manure—in fact it solves the problem of cheap manuring.

It is the great nitrogen gatherer and accumulator of the soil, and the most valuable of the new fertilizers. Especially valuable for sowing among cultivated crops, such as corn, beans, etc., and for sowing among uncultivated crops, poor lands, or even waste grounds. Turnips have been worn down at all times except when the ground is hard and soil. Especially for preceding Red Clover and other winter killed.

Grasses, turnips, clover, grasses, turnips and grasses of GRIMSON CLOVER will be mailed free, on application.
